Judge Crawford Deserves Support

If you are a criminal, you consider a judge bad if he convicts you of a crime after you have broken a law.

If you are the victim, the judge who jails the convicted criminal is a good judge.

If you are an attorney, and the judge demands that you do your homework and come to court prepared to properly pursue your profession, and on time, the judge is an arbitrary tyrant.

If you are a newsman viewing all judges of the district in relation to competence, Judge George Crawford is an outstandingly good judge.

He has been viewed as such by newsmen for the past 17 years—the years he has served in San Diego's Municipal Courts.

What is a bad judge? Let California Assemblyman Mike Antonovich tell about one he reported to the Capitol News Service on May 10, 1976. He tells of Judge B. Albert Goldberg who tried a child-molester with a 23-year record of perversion. Judge Goldberg granted the suspect probation.

The defendant's police record began when he was a Boy Scout leader and was sentenced to two concurrent terms for indecent molestation of a minor child.

Released from state prison, he was again arrested for perversion, treated at Atascadero State Hospital, and then sent to state prison on concurrent terms of one year to life and six months to 15 years. In just 2½ years he was out!

Antonovich said the man was convicted twice more in a 10-year period on the same charge.

When Judge Goldberg granted probation to this career pervert, his final comments were: "This may be your last chance."

Judge Crawford, on the other hand, who has earned a reputation for convicting criminals, is being challenged for his office by a Newport Beach attorney, Ronald A. Mayo. Telephone information gives Mayo's business and office address as 430 Canal, Newport Beach.

Candidates brought in from out of a community are usually labeled carpetbaggers. At least one informant says that a San Diego attorney, Lewis Katz, has led a fight against Judge Crawford for several years—ever since Crawford charged that Katz had been sent to San Diego about 20 years before to bring ultra-liberalism to the legal community by way of an American Civil Liberties Union cell.

Recently, it is averred, Katz and a group of followers, sought to recruit an antagonist to unseat Judge Crawford. A $10,000 war chest was set up but local attorneys declined the invitation to make the race.

But Ronald Mayo, residing at the time in Newport Beach with his new wife, was recruited. This apparently drew no objection from his former wife, Carole, who divorced him in 1970, nor from their three children: David 17; Leslie 15, and Marilyn, 14.

Mayo, in spite of a bad driving record with 4 excessively high speed citations recorded against him in May, June and December, 1974 and December, 1975, agreed to make the race.

Investigation shows he listed his present residence in April, 1975, to be Cardiff by the Sea. Other addresses presumably business ones, are: North Hotel Circle in February, 1975 and 4th Avenue, San Diego, in April, 1975.

Official records show a number of judgments were obtained against Mayo, including one from the Internal Revenue Service, about the time of his divorce.

Mayo had left San Diego about two years ago but is said to have returned at the urging of Attorney Katz and a number of left-wing attorneys, together with some young inexperienced trial lawyers. When Mayo returned he agreed to join the combat against Crawford as a candidate for Crawford's post.

A code of ethics requires extreme political discipline among judges. It prevents any judge, even those seeking reelection, from indulging in gutter politics with an adversary. Interestingly, lawyers were constrained by the same ethical standards until a year ago.

Just about this time last year, according to a report of an investigator, the San Diego Bar Association, led by Attorney Louis Katz, led the fight to have the Canon of Ethics governing attorneys running for a judgeship, removed . . . for study . . . for one year.

Now a lawyer-candidate can say almost anything he wants about a judge he opposes and escape professional censure. How can an incumbent hold his temper under these conditions?

Judge Crawford, the incumbent, has fine credentials. 50 law firms, some of them the most prestigious in the county, are sponsoring him. He served his country well. He suffered great indignities as a prisoner of war—the sacrifice only second to life (and in many cases some have said death is preferable).

A native San Diegan, he attended Woodrow Wilson Jr. High; Hoover High; SD State; Balboa U. Law school, and Cal Western Law school.

He was a SD City prosecutor before entering private practice; was Assemblyman, 79th District and became Municipal Court Judge in 1960.

He was governor of American Academy of Judicial Education; President, American Judges Assn.; President, SD County Municipal Court Judges Assn.; Director, American Judicature Society and member of American Bar Assn., and Conference of Calif. Judges.

He served as director and vice-president of Vista Hill Psychiatric Foundation; Charter Chairman of Citizens Mental Health Comm.; Chairman Copley YMCA, and President of the Old Mission Rotary club.

He is author of the POST programs establishing minimum standard for law officers; two papers published by the American Psychiatric Assn.; national award winner for his program for rehabilitation of alcoholics, and voted "Boss of the Year" by the SD Legal Secretaries Assn.

He is a member of ESD Masonic Lodge, 561, F&AM; VFW; DAV and American Legion, plus several others.

Lemon Grove and Spring Valley residents are not in the San Diego Municipal Court District, and thus, cannot vote.

But those who have been following the views of these columns could do well to urge those who live in San Diego to support Judge Crawford.

MEMORIAL DAY was a little more than 50 years old when Paul M. Canfield was a U.S. "doughboy" marching with the French against the Germans on the World War I battlefield in France of 1918. Fifty-eight years later, a spritely Canfield, now 82, observes the holiday which honors those who died in that and other U.S. wars. Then-Corporal Canfield saw action in five major battles in France during World War I. "We have covered ourselves with blood and glory," he wrote a friend after witnessing the battles of the Marne, St. Mihiel and Bois d'Argonne. He would face two more major skirmishes, battles of Meuse-Argonne and Champagne Marne, before his 1919 return to the states. Canfield, resident of East San Diego, is a retired Lemon Grove businessman. One of his two sons now runs Canfield Brakes Inc. on Imperial ave. Donned in his old battle jacket (right) he holds a mounted reprint of a Colorado newspaper story about his personal account of the fighting. At left is photo of the veteran as a young officer.

LG Steps Back; Gives LM Annex Try

Members of Lemon Grove's Incorporation Reorganization Committee derived a strategy Friday which might end the controversy concerning Vista La Mesa and surrounding unincorporated tracts north of Highway 94.

The committee met Friday afternoon in the offices of attorney Jim Dorman and left with the reluctant decision to back its proposed city out of the property north of the freeway, if the City of La Mesa would be willing to proceed with its annexation election in November.

Lemon Grove's boundaries would be determined without further dispute from La Mesa, the committee reasoned. An election for incorporation of Lemon Grove could then be held in March 1977.

Committee members at the meeting doubted that La Mesa would be able to draw a majority vote to annex the property north of Highway 94, east of San Diego, and south and west of La Mesa. If La Mesa fails to annex the area, Lemon Grove would renew its interest in it.

Anti-Lemon Grove At the same time, a group called Citizens for Annexation to La Mesa says it can arouse the support of more than 90 per cent of the community, according to one spokesman. General Chairman King Milligan has been circulating a leaflet in that area urging residents to write to the County board of supervisors and the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) telling them they object to being included in "any city" of Lemon Grove, and asking they be annexed to La Mesa.

The leaflet is more anti-Lemon Grove than pro-La Mesa. It also directs residents in the Blossom Hills area—unrelated to La Mesa's interests—to write insisting that it, too, be removed from Lemon Grove's proposed boundaries. Blossom Hills is a small tract of land east of Washington city. But another 604 voters live in the two southern precincts which overlap into the present Lemon Grove fire protection and school districts.

La Mesa City officials were expected to consider the Lemon Grove change of heart at its meeting Tuesday night.

Jim Dorman, who acted as county and La Mesa liaison to announce the committee's proposal, said that La Mesa officials were "delighted" when they heard of their decision.

La Mesa has been protesting Lemon Grove's north boundary since December when LAFCO moved it from Highway 94 north to Waite dr. and Pearson st. to conform with LG Fire District Boundaries.

Merchants along Broadway have banded together to give the old street a cleanup job tonight.

Barricades will be set up at entrances to the parking strips which straddle Broadway between Imperial and Kempf. A pickup squad and a sweep-up group will go into action about 7 p.m.

Craig Lake, co-proprietor of Dell Enterprises, whose firm is about mid-way on the strips to be cleaned, has obtained approval from a majority of the firms fronting on Broadway.

Lake estimated that the whole job should be completed by midnight. Few establishments are open after 9 p.m. in the area as a rule, he said.

One group that may be disappointed is the Thursday night Car Cruise which rolls into Lemon Grove soon after dark. Cruisers together with shoppers, will find parking spaces on side streets nearby.

The Broadway access to the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office will be left open so that the night patrol may come and go as usual.

Sheriff's Lt. George Dodson said that parking problems created by the barricades should be minimal and night patrol units will handle violations if they occur.

Parking strips on Broadway are owned by the property they face. That has created a long-standing problem. Because of private ownership, the county does not sweep nor maintain that area. Also, many acts that are violations on publicly-owned streets and highways are not illegal on privately owned property even though it is used exclusively by the public.

It is expected that another night will be set soon to fill the chuckholes in the parking area.

County Staff to Decide Fate of SV Swap Meet

An investigation into alleged traffic, noise and litter problems at a weekly swap meet in La Presa has been launched by the County Land Use and Environmental Regulation Department.

Dick Esgate, director of LUER, said representatives from the Sheriff's office, Zoning Enforcement and the Department of Transportation will meet this week to discuss the nature of the complaints and what can be done about them.

Esgate plans to call a public hearing on the matter, pending the outcome of the meeting this week.

Property owners in the area surrounding the swap meet location at Akard st. and Quarry rd. have made numerous complaints about the traffic, noise and litter spilling into the neighboring streets. Residents of a nearby retirement village have found traffic so heavy some mornings that they have been unable to go to church.

On two occasions, a fire and a call for an ambulance, emergency service was impaired by the traffic, a county spokesman said.

The Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce has registered complaints with the county in behalf of the residents and formed a committee to fight the swap meet.

If the county staff decides that the swap meet operators have failed to alleviate the alleged nuisance, the Board of Supervisors, acting on newly passed legislation, may revoke their business license.

Grove School Budget To Top $5 Million

Fiscal expenditures for the Lemon Grove School District will exceed five million dollars next year, the school board learned this month.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Paul Reynolds introduced the preliminary budget for the 1976-77 school year at the board's May 11 meeting. The total, $5,070,412, is up 5.3 per cent from the current year's $4,802,012.

Broadway Cleanup Scheduled For Tonight in Lemon Grove

Lemon Grove's business district should have a prettier face for Memorial Day — and it's going to be cleaner, too.

Merchants along Broadway have banded together to give the old street a cleanup job tonight.

Barricades will be set up at entrances to the parking strips which straddle Broadway between Imperial and Kempf. A pickup squad and a sweep-up group will go into action about 7 p.m.

Craig Lake, co-proprietor of Dell Enterprises, whose firm is about mid-way on the strips to be cleaned, has obtained approval from a majority of the firms fronting on Broadway.

Lake estimated that the whole job should be completed by midnight. Few establishments are open after 9 p.m. in the area as a rule, he said.

One group that may be disappointed is the Thursday night Car Cruise which rolls into Lemon Grove soon after dark. Cruisers together with shoppers, will find parking spaces on side streets nearby.

The Broadway access to the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office will be left open so that the night patrol may come and go as usual.

Sheriff's Lt. George Dodson said that parking problems created by the barricades should be minimal and night patrol units will handle violations if they occur.

Parking strips on Broadway are owned by the property they face. That has created a long-standing problem. Because of private ownership, the county does not sweep nor maintain that area. Also, many acts that are violations on publicly-owned streets and highways are not illegal on privately owned property even though it is used exclusively by the public.

It is expected that another night will be set soon to fill the chuckholes in the parking area.

NEW MISS LEMON GROVE — Mary Jo Byrne poses with Miss Lemon Grove trophies she acquired last week as chosen winner Judy Koenig became ineligible to represent the community. Miss Koenig, who lived with her parents in Santee until recently, said she had to give up the honor and return to her parents' home and would not be able to serve as Lemon Grove's ambassador at various civic functions throughout the coming year. Miss Byrne, judged first runner-up in the April contest, takes the crown and will compete next week in the S. Cal. Expo Fairest of the Fair contest. Second runner-up was Judy Walter. Others in the contest were Monica Sabus, Toni Pearce and Becky Butram.

Christian Women Organize County Prayer Movement

Christian women in the San Diego area have organized a prayer program which will unite women of all denominations throughout the county. This prayer movement is a major preamble to the Greater San Diego Billy Graham Crusade to be held at the San Diego Stadium August 14-20.

The "kick-off" event for the area-wide prayer effort will be a Crusade Women's Rally to be held Thursday, June 3rd at 7:30 p.m. in the Golden Hall Convention and Performing Arts Center. Purpose of rally is to provide inspiration and instruction to women attending who are interested in the effects which prayer can have on the community. Women from all backgrounds and denominations are urged to attend. There is no admission charge. Materials explaining the prayer program for the Billy Graham Crusade will be distributed at the Rally.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Millie Dienert, who was prayer chairman for the World Congress on Evangelism held last year in Switzerland. She has been with the Billy Graham Team for 20 years.

Guest soloist for the Rally will be Myrtle Hall, a soprano who has traveled with the Billy Graham Team for the last nine years. She will be accompanied by Otis Skillings, an accomplished pianist and composer and current Minister of Music at Skyline Wesleyan Church, Lemon Grove.

Ultimate goal of the program is to provide a home on every block in the city which will be opened for prayer during the month of July preceding the August 14-20 Crusade.

Eat and Grow Younger

2nd, 3rd Commandments Promote Vitamin, Mineral Supplements

By Lelord Kordel

Number Fifteen of a Series

Minerals rank with protein as the most neglected haphazardly obtained nutrients in our "civilized" diet, and more especially in the diets of persons past 40. Protein and minerals are so closely linked that to advise you to eat plenty of protein, without stressing the need for equal care in obtaining a full quota of minerals, would be to tell only half the Eat-and-Grow-Younger story. That is why my second nutritional commandment is "Minerals without fail."

Protein and minerals are the chief actors in the nutritional drama, while vitamins play a secondary, although essential, role needed to set other substances into action. To neglect any of these three food elements wrecks the nutritional drama.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, noted authority on diseases of older persons, stated: "The foremost nutritional defects in the mature and aging are calcium, iron and protein. Fully 75 per cent of men over suffer a lack of one or more. On the other hand, many suffer dietary excesses, notably carbohydrates and possibly cholesterol."

Calcium-Iron Important

Calcium is so important an ingredient of blood that your bloodstream will attempt to maintain its calcium level, even though it has to rob other body parts of their vitally needed calcium. That is why, in many older persons, the bones robbed of their calcium by the blood become fragile, resulting in easily fractured arms, legs and hips.

Your nerves, your heart, your teeth, your brain cells, your blood — all need sufficient calcium to remain healthy, and to function as nature intended.

An inexpensive and convenient way to obtain added calcium in the diet is through the use of powdered skim milk. This dry milk provides needed calcium and protein along with many trace minerals — less the fats which are wisely limited during the later years.

It is Dr. Crampton's belief that a deficiency of iron is nearly always present in the "uncared-for persons in the higher-age brackets."

He says that the typical person of 60 is anemic, iron-poor and body-poor — unnecessarily so. Insufficient hydrochloric acid in the gastric secretions is a common cause of iron poverty in the older body.

Third Commandment—
"My third commandment—
"Vitamins in their rightful place."

The constant need for vitamin-rich food in your diet is an oft-told tale, and one which I shall not repeat here. Yet there are two facts about vitamins which you may not know, and which deserve to be included here.

The first little known fact is that proteins and vitamins work together. The chemical agents called enzymes, that do the greatest part of the digestive work for your body, are all made of protein. Certain of these protein enzymes actually take part in your body's use of its vitamins, while certain vitamins affect the body's production of protein enzymes—a sort of "mutual aid society."

In other words, you can't expect the vitamins in your food (or the vitamin-mineral supplement you take) to give you all the benefits you expect from them, unless you also provide your body with ample quantities of protein foods each day.

Nutritional science has learned that successful vitamin therapy depends upon the presence of adequate high-proteins in the diet. Your vitamin needs should always begin with a high protein diet.

Fruits and vegetables may appear fresh and green in the market, yet be grossly lacking in vitamins, and minerals as well.

May Lack Vitamins

Therefore, unless you grow your own fruits and vegetables on properly fertilized soil—or can purchase them from farms and gardens containing carefully enriched soil to your certain knowledge—there is every possibility you are not obtaining in your food all the vitamins and minerals needed to keep you looking and feeling young.

In that event, the safest course is to supplement your Eat-and-Grow-Younger diet with a vitamin-mineral concentrate.

Carefully planned meals plus added vitamins and minerals in concentrated form, provide the best way to make certain that vitamins and minerals are "adequate" in our diet. And adequate they must be, if you don't want your Eat-and-Grow Younger program to bog down.

Next: The fifth "commandment" how to reduce in safety with a high-protein diet. Sample menu for reducers.

Nursing Home Patient's Bill of Rights Listed

This is the fourth of a five-part series of articles explaining how families, friends and the community can help protect the interests and welfare of the nursing home patient. The material is based on Information Pamphlet No. 7, "Understanding the New California Nursing Home Act," published by the office of State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

Nursing home patients have rights. They are delineated in new state regulations.

According to the Skilled Nursing Facilities Regulations (section 72523), a nursing home patient has the legal right:

1. To be fully informed of his rights and of all rules and regulations of the nursing home governing patient conduct.
2. To be fully informed of the services available in the facility and of the charges for services.
3. To be fully informed by a physician of his medical condition*; to have the opportunity to participate in the planning of his medical treatment and to refuse to participate in experimental research.

4. To refuse treatment to the extent permitted by law and to be informed of the medical consequences of refusal.

5. To be transferred or discharged only for medical reasons, or for his welfare or that of other patients or for nonpayment of his stay and to be given reasonable advance notice.

6. To be encouraged and assisted throughout his period of stay to exercise his rights as a patient and as a citizen, free from restraint, interference, coercion, discrimination or reprisal.

7. To manage his personal financial affairs, or to be given at least quarterly an accounting of financial transactions made on his behalf if the facility accepts this responsibility for him.

8. To be free from mental and physical abuse and from chemical and (except in emergencies) physical restraints except as authorized in writing by a physician for a specified and limited period of time, or when necessary to protect the patient from injury to himself or to others.

9. To be assured confidential treatment of his personal and medical records.

10. To be treated with consideration, respect and full recognition of his dignity and individuality, including privacy in treatment and in care for his personal needs.

11. Not to be required to perform services for the facility that are not included in his plan of care for therapeutic purposes.

12. To associate and communicate privately with persons of his choice, and to send and receive his personal mail unopened.*

13. To meet with and participate in activities of social, religious, and community groups at his discretion.*

14. To retain and use his personal clothing and possessions as space permits, unless to do so would infringe upon the rights of other patients.*

15. If married, to be assured privacy for visits by his/her spouse and if both are patients in the facility, to be permitted to share a room.*

16. To have daily visiting hours established.

17. To have members of the clergy admitted at the request of the patient or person responsible at any time.

Giants Close Padres Homestand

The San Diego Padres will put the wraps on the club's second session of meetings with teams in the National League's Western Division in the next few days as the Padres will host the San Francisco Giants and then take to the road for a series with the Atlanta Braves.

San Diego will close out its third homestand of the year against the Giants in single games set for today through Sunday, with the first three games starting at 7 p.m. and the Sunday finale going at the customary 1 p.m. The contests with the Giants will be the first in San Diego this season despite the fact the campaign is just finishing up the second month.

A quick road trip will follow the four-game series with the Giants as San Diego will complete Western Division play for the time being with a three-game series with the Braves in Atlanta, Monday through Wednesday, May 31-June 2.

One Day Off

The Padres will remain on the road briefly after the Atlanta contests as the club will be idle on Thursday, June 3 before rounding out the swing with three games in Pittsburgh with the defending Eastern Division champion Pirates, June 4-6. The trio of meetings with the Bucs will actually be kicking off a string of 17 straight outings against Eastern Division rivals.

San Diego will be displaying a new look around the circuit as the Padres have made a couple of recent roster changes, getting outfielder Luis Melendez from St. Louis and problen and Ken Reynolds. "We're still looking to firm up our starting rotation," Padre manager John McNamara said. "We're definitely set with Randy Jones and Brent Strom, but we have yet to get consistent performances from our three, four and five men. Hopefully with Freileben and Reynolds we'll be able to get some badly needed stability."

"Dave, of course, has been with us the past two seasons and we feel he's been able to shake off some of the problems which plagued him this past spring and led to his eventual assignment to Hawaii instead of making the major league roster," McNamara added. "And Reynolds has been doing quite well so far and we're anxious to get a good look at what he can do for us up here."

Volleyball Season Starts

Breakers Ready for Openers Against Los Angeles Sunday

The countdown has started. In a matter of hours the Breakers open their IVA volleyball season.

The moment of truth is Sunday, at 7:30, at the Sports Arena versus the Los Angeles Stars.

If things go well between now and then, the Breakers will present a stronger line than last season's.

It may even boast the outstanding Brazilian player, Luis Eymard, who has been a steady player for the past seven years on the Brazilian national team.

Hollywood Stars Game Cancelled

Scheduling conflicts involving some of the major name performers the San Diego Padres has resulted in the cancellation of the Hollywood Stars softball game set for Saturday, May 29.

Fans who purchased tickets specifically for that evening may exchange their tickets for the game of their choice through the Padres ticket office or may wait until the end of the season for the annual Unused Ticket Night on Tuesday, September 14 when the Padres host the San Francisco Giants.

"The whole idea of the promotion," Padres Director of Promotions Jim Weigel said, "was to provide the fans with a fun evening of softball with the stars. Unfortunately, we reached a point where too many of the top people we had lined up for the event had to alter their commitment so that we decided it was in the best interest of everyone to cancel the game."

Breakers coach Rudy Suwara said this week that he is hopeful of having Eymard's signature on a contract before the season's opener gets under way.

The 6-3 Brazilian, 26 years old, depends largely on lightning speed in delivering his front line repertoire of spikes, dinks and blocks. He was named All World during an international tournament in Germany when he was just 19.

Gametime Monday is 7:30 p.m. and parking is free.

Money-Back Guarantee
Meanwhile, in the put-your-money-where-your-mouth-is department, the Breakers are making a deal with their season ticket fans that they will find hard to refuse. It's a sort of money-back guarantee.

"Since losing last year's championship our sole mission has been to bring the championship to San Diego in '76," said General Manager Alex Groza.

"We made moves to improve our club that can bring this about. We have reinforced our staff in order to give this team good front office backing. We are now reaffirming our fans' faith in us by guaranteeing them a championship."

"If we fail we will refund 10 per cent of the purchase price to all season ticket-holders."

Groza pointed out that the newest Breaker player, Dodge Parker, claimed the San Diego volleyball fans were the toughest in the world to play before.

"Dodge says that's a definite plus for the home team. Local fans are knowledgeable, vociferous and exuberant with victory . . . and we want to

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

Bernie Sisk is what you have to call a persistent person. He's got this thing about baseball and he keeps shoving and pushing to attract attention.

Now Bernie doesn't appear to give a damn about his home town team. Fresno is small potatoes in Bernie's athletic appetite. Besides, Fresno is just Bernie's "official" address. He resides in Washington, D.C.

Bernie Sisk is a congressman. He's in his second decade of fooling the folks in Fresno. He comes back to get re-elected every two years and spends the rest of his time worrying in print and other media about the more important things of life.

Like free tickets to football games, the highjacking of a baseball team to his home away from home and government pressure on professional sports for free TVing of sold out games.

One wonders how Bernie stands on National Defense, modernization of the U.S. Fleet, nuclear power, health, the railroads, the national debt, the 200 mile off-shore protected zone, detente, or the unionization of the military services. He never seems to speak or direct any of his public energy toward these issues.

He makes you wonder what the folks of Fresno are getting for their votes. But if they don't care, those fortunate folks who don't live in Fresno certainly care less.

Bernie's latest bid for power is a special congressional committee to investigate why baseball hasn't forced, pilfered, stolen or created a new team for Washington, D.C. Sisk's charge is baseball is unfair by not playing in the nation's capital. He insists that baseball's antitrust exemption is a prime target for a going over by the new "special" congressional committee.

"Professional Sports," he says, are private enterprises, but they are permitted to do things under the law that are not permitted other businesses."

It doesn't seem to bother Sisk that two teams did their damnest to make a go of it in the hot and troubled inner-city stadium Washington, D.C. politicians misplaced in a section of town which taxis refuse to service after dark.

One wonders if Sisk ever took the time to look at the bullet holes in the glass doors of the main entrance to JFK Stadium. As nuts as Redskin fans are, players and coaches alike confess things would be different if NFL games were played at night instead of Sunday afternoons.

Washingtonites stayed away from Senators' games in large droves, to bring great amounts of red ink to be used on Cal Griffith's books forcing the original Senators to flee to Minnesota.

They stayed away again when Ed Quesada, Jim Johnson and Bob Short tried to keep the national pastime alive in the verbage village of the world. Short finally pulled out and took refuge in Texas, which shows how desperate he became.

Of course, none of the business of making ends meet concerns members of Congress. They have no idea what it is to try to remain solvent. You can read their thoughts: "If a budget was supposed to be balanced, then God would have made them that way." Or, "if a professional sports team tries to make money, then by Gawd, there's something tricky going on and Congress oughtta pass a law again' it."

Maybe Sisk gets reelected every two years on the promise of staying away from Fresno. Maybe its their way of running him out of town.

Sisk repaid his constituency by attempting to pressure the pilfering of Fresno's nearest major league club to Washington over the winter. He was the power in the congressional push to pry the San Francisco Giants out of California. And it wasn't his first attempt to steal from his home state.

Sisk is also the gent who pushed and shoved the Padres loose from San Diego in preKroe years.

He has baseball's great non-Commissioner Bowie H. Kuhn safely in his pocket. Kuhn was a Washington wedge in both the Giant and Padre power play. Shame on him!

Now Sisk is at it again. He's going to point fingers and yell until he gets a team to Washington. Isn't it wonderful to know our country is being run by giants like him?

Local Racers Lag in Cajon Speedway Events

The Spirit of '76 will be recognized Saturday with a Memorial holiday 76-lapper at Cajon Speedway for the 20 fastest super-stocks.

Coming off the season's biggest turnout — 4,835 — it is expected another record-breaker crowd will watch Saturday's various events. Time trials are set for 6:30 plus cars at 6:30 and a four-lap trophy dash at 8.

Pat McIntyre, the Spring Valley racer, has dropped to third place behind Ron Esau with 735 points and Ron Overman with 680. McIntyre has 590 and led the pack the first two weeks.

Other local racers in the top 10 are Lanny Pemberton who is 6th and Gary Beecroft who is 10th. Both are from Lemon Grove.

John Dineen of El Cajon won last week's main event in 12:36.81 and is now 4th. He became the 5th different main-event winner in 6 weeks of competition. Esau is the only two-time winner.

Main events continue to make great demands on man and machine. There is now only 28 seconds from top qualifier to the 20th fastest. Despite these challenges the number of cars trying out increases weekly. Last week a high of 66 prepared for trials.

After seven programs, including a CRA spring show, 32,682 fans have attended the performances.

Election Laws Unfair Says Sup. Candidate

Walt Kenrick, candidate for Supervisor in the Second District, has filed suit to overturn discriminatory and unfair sections of the County Charter relating to campaign contributions involving fellow Deputies.

Kenrick, a Sergeant in the Sheriff's Department, under the provisions of the Charter cannot accept even nominal contributions for his campaign from fellow Deputy Sheriffs. The same Deputy, if he chose, could make personal contributions to Kenrick's opponents contesting for the same seat in this election.

"When Deputy Sheriff friends who want to support my candidacy cannot attend events and give a minimum contribution of $12, or are not allowed to even pay the cost of their own meal at a campaign event, we are being unfairly penalized," Kenrick said.

"The intent of ordinances relating to political contributions is to provide equality, freedom of speech and fairness to all candidates. San Diego Charter, Section 66(b), very closely violates that doctrine if you are a loyal Deputy Sheriff who is seeking elective office."

Taxman Tells What to Do If Income Tax Refund is Late

Still waiting for that income tax refund check?

The Internal Revenue Service has outlined the steps taxpayers should take when they fail to receive their federal income tax refund checks within eight to ten weeks after filing their returns.

According to William H. Connett, IRS District Director for Southern California, checks for federal tax refunds are not issued by IRS, but by Treasury Department disbursing offices from information supplied by IRS. The actual responsibility of IRS ends when the required information is furnished to a disbursing office.

However, as part of its service to taxpayers, Connett said Internal Revenue will help find out what happened to missing checks and advise taxpayers of any steps which they should take to locate undeliverable, lost or stolen checks.

Connett said that whenever a taxpayer discovers that he or she has not received a tax refund check which IRS says has been mailed, the taxpayer will be given or sent a Form 3911, "Taxpayer Statement Regarding Refund," to complete and return.

Undeliverable Refunds

The district director noted that there are several reasons why taxpayers might not receive their refund checks. Checks are often returned to the Treasury disbursing office as "undeliverable" by the Postal Service. Some are lost, stolen or forged.

If an undeliverable check has been returned by a Treasury disbursing office, the completion of Form 3911 will trigger the reissuance of a check. Undeliverable checks usually have an incomplete or incorrect address. Checks will also go back to the disbursing office if the taxpayer moves without leaving a forwarding address. Reissuance usually takes about 10 to 12 weeks, Connett said.

If a check has been lost in the mail or by a taxpayer before it has been endorsed and cashed or deposited, the Check Claims Division of the Treasury Department will issue a stop-payment order on the check. A replacement check is then issued by a Treasury disbursing office. This normally takes 12 to 16 weeks.

Theft, Forgery

If a refund check is stolen or if its endorsement is forged, and the check has been cashed, the Claims Division will send the taxpayer photocopies of both the check and its endorsement together with a questionnaire. It must be completed, signed and returned to the Claims Division immediately.

No further investigation will be made and no action to replace the check will be taken until the questionnaire is returned.

Often the taxpayer is able to identify the endorser as a family member, friend or associate against whom the taxpayer does not wish to take legal action.

After the questionnaire is returned, the Claims Division will send a notice assigning the investigation a file number. The case is then completely controlled by the Claims Division of the Treasury Department and not by the IRS. Address for inquiries is: Treasurer of the United States, Check Claims Division, 401 14th st., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20226.

7 Per Cent Interest

As a final note, Connett explained how the taxpayer can benefit from a late refund. The IRS must mail a check no later than 45 days beyond the due date of the return, April 15. If the deadline is not met, interest at the rate of 7 per cent annually computed from the due date until the date of the initial check, is included in the refund. But interest is not paid on checks which are undeliverable, lost or stolen.

Don't Litter This Month

The president of the California Anti-Litter League has designated the month of May as "Anti-Litter Month" for the 10th consecutive year.

The Anti-Litter League has received proclamations from mayors of cities all over California pledging support.

Inaugurated in 1967 as a way to encourage interest in better litter control, Anti-Litter Month is observed from the Oregon to Mexican borders.

New Funds Resume State's Highway Construction Projects

California's director of transportation has recommended to augment $49 million in state highway construction funds, $43 million of which will be used for southern county projects, it was announced this month.

Director Adriana Gianturco's decision resumes Department of Transportation's highway construction program in the 1976-77 fiscal year. A construction moratorium has been imposed since last year.

About a third of the total will be spent on safety roadside rests signs, stripes, pavement resurfacing and bridge replacement. The remainder will be spent on 46 highway construction projects statewide.

Part of the program is a project to resurface about 15 miles of highway at various locations on San Diego highways 54, 75 and 94. The $282,000 project will open for bid June 17.

A Look at Past Issues

Back Pages

A look at the pages of this newspaper twenty years ago reveals some of the interesting contrasts between then and now. This column highlights some of the items that appeared in this newspaper at this time two decades ago.

By Bruce Binkowski

An increase of 5% or roughly $3.25 per week in salaries for classified employees of the Lemon Grove School District was approved twenty years ago this week by the local school board.

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce was making plans for their monthly meeting which was to include discussion of hiring a paid secretary-general manager. Consideration of a neon sign for the new freeway to identify Lemon Grove was also on the agenda.

Political races were going strong two decades ago this week, just as they are today. Several political ads could be found in the pages of the Review/Bulletin. Here were some of the individuals running for office: Peter De Graf for Supervisor in the second district; William Shearer for Assembly; Dave Bird, Supervisor; Tom Kuchel was running for re-election for the U.S. Senate; George Cheney was a candidate for Congress and Sam Yorty was a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate. Congressman James Utt was running for a third term as a California representative in Congress and Sheridan Hegland was running for an extra term to the State Assembly.

A Spring Valley Beauty Salon was offering a Shampoo and set for only 1.75 and a hair styling cost $1.25.

Dennis Hopper, the Lemon Grove native who made it big in the movies with "Easy Rider" was mentioned in the May 31, 1956 edition of the Review/Bulletin as in the running for a part in a science fiction movie. Hopper was under contract at the time to Warner Brothers.

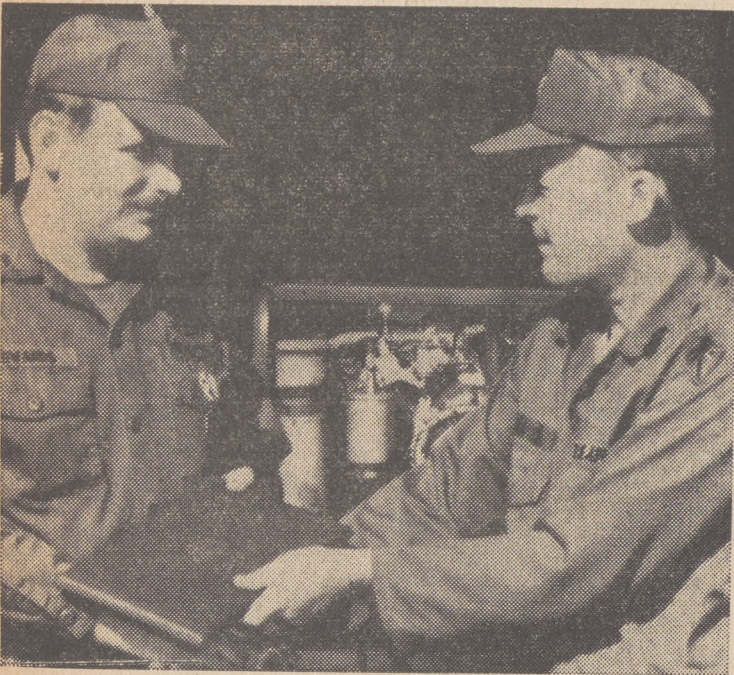

Free Seedling May Be Worth Hawaiian Trip

A realtor chain is giving away free seedling trees between now and July 4 and is promoting their growth with a special contest.

Scotch pine seedlings will be delivered, while supplies last, free of charge to San Diego area residents during the next two months by Giant Realtors representatives. The growth of each seedling, marked with an identifying tag, will be judged on Memorial Day, 1977. The winning gardener will receive a Hawaiian vacation for two or its cash equivalent, $2,500.

Second prize winner gets $1,000, third prize $500.

Area Men In Uniform

Staff Sergeant Robert Edwards

Army Staff Sergeant Robert L. Edwards, son of Mrs. Sally B. Edwards, Lemon Grove, was presented the Army Commendation Medal in April at Ft. Gordon, Georgia.

The medal was awarded for meritorious service. Such service can be over an extended period of time or for outstanding achievement in a single situation. In either case, the recipient must have demonstrated skills and dedication far above average.

Edwards earned the award during his last assignment in the 3rd Infantry Division in Germany.

He is a generator supervisor in Headquarters Company, Headquarters Command, J.S. Army Signal Center, at Ft. Gordon. He entered the service in 1966.

The sergeant served in Vietnam and holds the Vietnamese Gallantry Cross.

His wife, Betty Jo, lives in Grovetown, Georgia.

Cpl. Charles Montanez

Marine Corporal Charles J. Montanez, 24, whose wife Rachael is the daughter of Mrs. Bernadine Olivas of 8825 Zapple court, Spring Valley, has reported for duty at the Marine Corps Air Station, Yuma, Ariz. A 1969 graduate of Mar Vista High School, Imperial Beach, he joined the Marine Corps in September 1972.

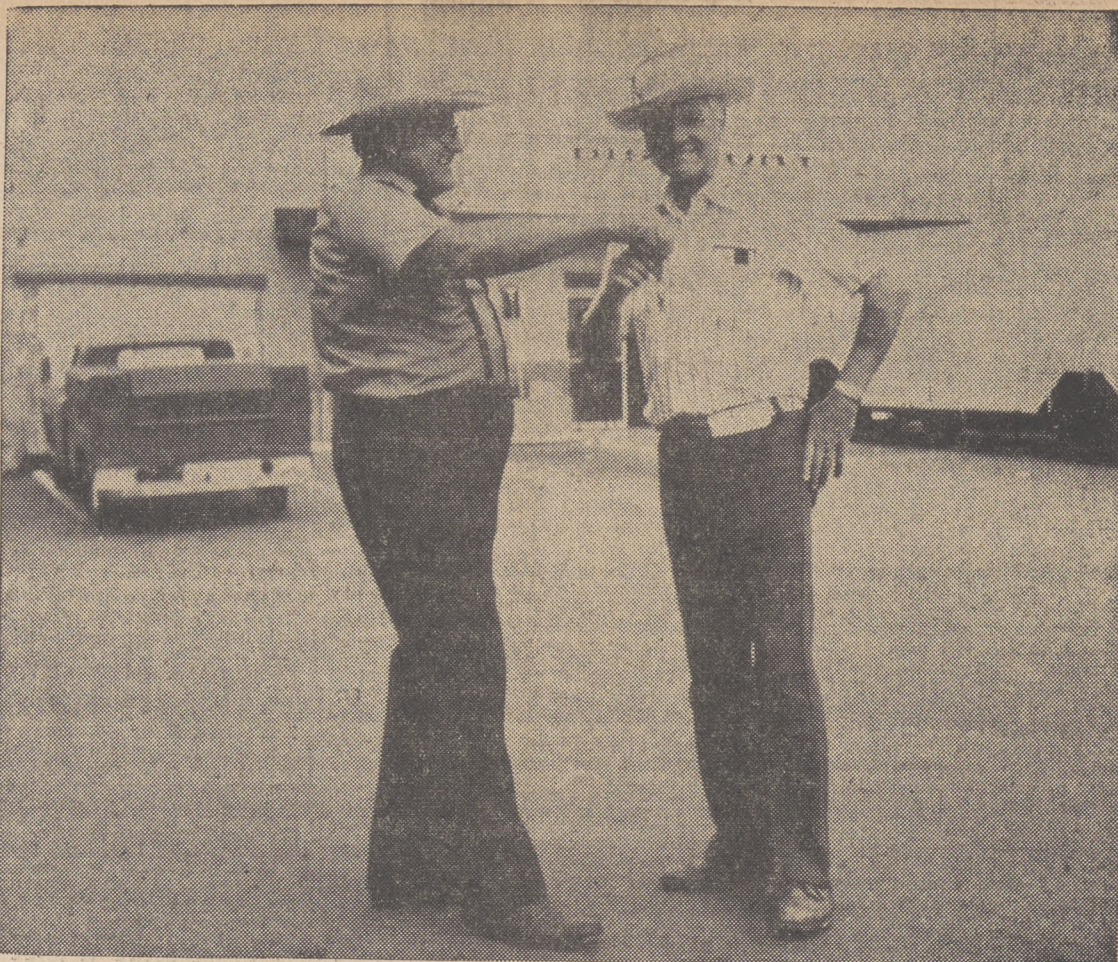

Lance Cpl. Galusha

Marine Lance Corporal Pete D. Galusha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale C. Galusha of 530 Hotz st., Spring Valley, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the 3rd Marine Division, on Okinawa.

A former student of Skyline High School, Lemon Grove, he joined the Marine Corps in November 1975.

Physical conditioning, discipline and teamwork are emphasized during Marine recruit training.

Classes include instruction in close order drill, Marine Corps history, first aid, uniform regulations and military customs and courtesies.

PROPERTY CHANGES HANDS — Jim Eppick, owner of the property occupied by Big J. Market and adjoining businesses, hands the keys to his building to new owner and veteran Lemon Grove businessman Dell Lake. Eppick, who owned the property 33 years, calls himself the "Latter Day Johnny Appleseed" by virtue of his campaign to plant Torrey pine seeds and seedling all over the world. He has planted the rare San Diego pine tree seeds in several locations in the United States, Canada and Europe since 1966. Formerly a Lemon Grove resident, Eppick, a retired carpenter, now lives in Lakeside.

No Banquet, but Good enough for Survival

Local Emergency Foodstock Enough for 400,000 People

San Diego County does have enough food stored to feed more than 400,000 people for two weeks.

According to Ray Rapp, acting chief deputy director of the Unified S.D. County Office of Emergency Services (OES),

Savings Account Market Survey Shows BoA Tops

A recent marketing survey showed that Bank of America has the largest share of the savings market in the county.

The scientific survey CASH (Continued Analysis of Shopping Habits) was conducted by Copley International Corporation for the Union-Tribune Publishing Co.

Bank of America had 13 per cent of the market for savings accounts, the survey showed. In second place were California First Bank and Home Federal Savings and Loan, each with 10 per cent. Home Federal held the largest share for a savings and loan association. San Diego Federal followed with five per cent; Imperial three per cent; Central Federal, two; Oceanside Federal, two and First Federal of San Diego one.

The random survey was conducted through telephone inquiries with adults from nearly 200 households representing a cross-section of county residents.

Average Income $12,607. In addition, the survey constructed a picture of the typical San Diego County saver. The head of the saver's household is 40.9 years old with a $12,607 annual family income. He has had 13.9 years of education and has three people in his family.

Of the San Diego savers surveyed, 54 per cent have no children under 18; 17 per cent have one child; 13 per cent two children; and 12 per cent have three or more.

Only 29 per cent were engaged in professional, technical managerial or proprietary work. Thirteen per cent were in clerical or sales positions, 19 per cent were craftspeople and operatives, 14 per cent were retired, and all other occupations account for 25 per cent of the county's savers.

inquiries from concerned citizens are being received periodically for information about the reserve food stocks.

"Some people think it might be left over World War II field or combat rations," said Rapp, "but, actually, these were purchased by the Federal government in the 1960s to stock the then-popular fallout shelters."

"The 'food' is not a diet one would like to be on for anything other than a basic survival regimen, however. It consists of specially prepared crackers or wafers which are highly nutritious, but not too tasty. With the crackers as protein, hard candies in skimpy amounts provide the carbohydrates of the survival diet."

Checked By Veterinarians

Rapp said that the food is checked periodically by the Army Veterinarian Corps and although some of it is getting a mildly rancid taste, the food is still in excellent condition as regards both health and nutrition.

"Some years ago, the inventory of all the fallout shelter spaces with their food supplies, medical first aid kits, and sanitation kits were reduced to a computer system. Physical inventory, or staff time, is virtually nil and has been since that time," continued Rapp.

He said that water storage in large quantities for emergencies has been a problem, so the alternative has been to issue empty water barrels. During a period of worsening international relations with a potential enemy nation, building maintenance people would fill the lightweight metal barrels.

Stored Free

The shelter supplies, were issued by the Department of Defense, to local jurisdictions and are stored free of charge

Letters to the Editor

Champ Complains

Dear Editor:

I have to laugh! You ran a goof-off about my tennis playing.

I am the champion singles player of the Spring Valley Kiwanis club. I won the title and the money (for the SV Kiwanis club) on October 16, 1974. You said I lost. I didn't. I won.

Attorney Ron Svalstad had been badgering me in the Kiwanis club for over a year to give him a return match and agreed to a doubles match. He said he would get a "sweet old lady" as a partner. I took him up on this.

He and his pretty, young partner — Jean Petty — did beat me on May 12 in a sudden death finish. My partner and I should have won except I goofed off on the last important point. If I had won this point, we feel certain we could have beat them in the third set.

The Kiwanis club made good money and we all had some laughs. By the way, there is no such thing as 3 players on a side as you suggested that I had planned. But we do want a return match.

Stop Drug Use

Dear Editor:

The people of California voted against the legalization of marijuana a couple of years ago, yet the State Legislature turned around and in effect, legalized drug use.

Let's re-elect those legislators who voted against the bill, and elect new ones, like Mike Bollman, who will fight against the growing drug epidemic.
